

Personnel and Readiness Information Management (P&R IM) is now on the Intelink/Intellipedia Portal!

This document contains information for P&R IM stakeholders interested in learning more about and accessing P&R IM Intelink collaborative sites.

Did you know?

Several P&R IM working groups and initiatives are using the collaborative site Intellipedia on Intelink (<http://www.intelink.gov>). P&R IM is using Intellipedia as a tool to share materials and enhance communication with stakeholders, in a safe and secure environment.

What are Intellipedia and Intelink?

Intellipedia is an online system for collaborative data sharing used by the United States Intelligence Community (IC) and created by the Office of the Director of National Intelligence (ODNI) Intelink Enterprise Collaboration Center office, formerly the Intelligence Community Enterprise Services. It consists of three networks with editable and interlinked websites or wikis, running on the Joint Worldwide Intelligence Communications System (JWICS), the Secret Internet Protocol Router Network (SIPRNet), and DNI-U, a group of secure intranets used by the US Intelligence Community. The three networks allow for three different levels of information classification; JWICS allows Top Secret information, SIPRNet allows Secret information, and DNI-U allows Sensitive But Unclassified/For Official Use Only (FOUO) information. The networks are not open to the public, and P&R IM uses Intellipedia for FOUO information only.

Users on unclassified networks can access Intellipedia via Virtual Private Network (VPN), regardless of location.

What is the value of Intellipedia?

Intellipedia is being used as an enterprise tool for communication and collaboration to inspire greater stakeholder engagement. Intelink's safe and secure environment provides stakeholders with access to information on Intellipedia that is unavailable on the public P&R IM website.

How do I gain access to P&R IM Intellipedia sites?

To gain access to P&R IM Intellipedia sites from a secure desktop, simply follow the Intellipedia URL to a static version of the wiki page. If you are an Intelink account holder, you may log in at the upper left-hand corner to utilize the collaborative features of the site.

To gain access to P&R IM Intellipedia sites from a computer on a non-Department of Defense (DoD) network, users must:

1) Visit <https://www.intelink.gov/passport/Welcome> to log-on

2) Request Remote Access for an active Intelink account

If you do not hold an active Intelink account, you may register by visiting <http://ra.intelink.gov/>.

Note: Only persons who meet the Eligibility Criteria may apply for Remote Access. To request a Remote Access application, send an email to dni-ices-account@ugov.gov from your federal email address with the subject line "Send me a RA Application."

How do I log in to P&R IM Intellipedia sites?

Once you've gained access, you may log in to a P&R IM Intellipedia site by doing the following:

- 1) Visit <http://www.intellipedia.gov> from a DoD network or <http://ra.intelink.gov> from a non-DoD network OR click on the Intellipedia icon at the top of an applicable P&R IM website page.

- 2) Enter your Intelink username and password, and then click Log-in.
- 3) There are two options for accessing Intelink and Intellipedia sites:
 - a. Recommended: Use the direct link provided on the P&R IM website
 - b. If you do not have access to the direct link: Search within Intellipedia using the Search function in the left-hand column of the page with key word "Personnel and Readiness Information Management." This search will bring up all P&R IM-related Intellipedia pages and will help you locate the page.
